CeliaCzerlinski sent their spring/summer 2012 collection down the Berlin Fashion Week runway today and the theme was colorful handbags. The backdrop to the stage featured several styles and colors of spring handbags while models strutted the catwalk carrying small, daytime clutches; which was an important trend in handbags for 2011 and will continue to be for 2012. The innovative handbag designer not only showed the fashion world new styles in the world of handbags, the show itself was a handbag lovers dream.

CeliaCzerlinski is known for designing luxurious handbags made from fine leather. The collection offers several innovative styles and takes on traditional handbag silhouettes. The spring/summer 2012 collection is no different, offering bold color choices and handbag styles unlike those of other designers.

CeliaCzerlinski created a daytime clutch in bold colors with a rounded flap closure which is on-trend for 2012 and easy to wear during the day or for evening occasions with semi-formal attire. The designer also created shoulder bags with a medium length shoulder strap and rounded flap closure; also in a variety of bold colors. CeliaCzerlinski showed an updated version of her single top handle satchel with shoulder strap which featured a hard, straight top handle that was structural and unique.

The unique double handle tote CeliaCzerlinski is showing for spring and summer 2012 appears to be a cross between a tote and hobo. The body of the handbag is soft like a slouchy hobo and the double top handles are metal circles carefully placed away from the edges of the handbag to allow for maximum slouch. This is most innovative piece of the collection; fusing styles together, yet offering a classic vibe that makes one want to wear this handbag for life.

The spring and summer collection by CeliaCzerlinski was shown in rose, winter white, yellow, turquoise, plum, navy, black, royal blue, beige and hot pink.
