ACCESSORY REPORT: CELIACZERLINSKI

Attention to detail is key when choosing to finish off any look. This concept applies not only to dressing up formally, but to any situation in which first impressions count. By this I mean all the time.

Montreal Fashion Week was as always an amazing experience, traditionally filled with endless amounts of perfect dresses and separates to go with the springtime season. Both men and women had fashions presented to suit the needs of lifetime wardrobe wants and needs, but what caught my eye was the particular works of an artisan of accessories: German born Celia Czerlinski.

What I love about this collection is the unabashed use of color within the seemingly miniature display. CELIACZERLINSKI uses high quality luxury leather to craft her handbags together, adding an ultra-modern design along with vibrant shades that grab the focus of any onlooker, this designer knows how to pack a powerful punch into something small and versatile.

Glad to have had you at Montreal Fashion Week, come back soon!
